Let yourself be enchanted by the snow-covered nature - glistening snow fields, clear cold winter air ... the Salzkammergut is also a real treat in winter!

Far away from the hustle and bustle of the pistes, winter in the Salzkammergut can also be enjoyed from its quieter side. Idyllic winter hikes through snow-covered forests allow you to take a deep breath. Once you have experienced the magic of a snow-covered winter landscape, you won't want to miss it again.

Hike through the Blinkingmoos in Strobl

approx. 4 km, duration approx. 1.5 hours - no elevation gain

On the old route of the Wolfgangsee local railroad, you walk through the Blinkingmoos nature reserve to Wassbad. Along the way, you will pass an observation tower, which offers a fantastic view over the snow-covered moor to Lake Wolfgangsee. The route leads back to the center of Strobl along the footpath close to Lake Wolfgangsee.

Hike around the Offensee in Ebensee

approx. 5 km, duration approx. 1.5 hours - no elevation gain

The mountain flanks of the Totes Gebirge are reflected in its waters. The detour from the Traun valley up to the Offensee is particularly worthwhile in winter. The snow then has the mountain valley fully under control and the mountain forests are bathed in a sea of white. Dressed warmly, the walk around the lake becomes a nature experience where the mountain winter reveals itself in its purest form. An ideal excursion destination for anyone who has always wanted to know how intense the snowy air in the mountains really smells.
